INDIANA RAIL ROAD PROMOTES CORCORAN, REALIGNS ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

Indianapolis, IN, Thursday, September 1, 2022 – The Indiana Rail Road Company (INRD) continues organizational realignments, strengthening the management structure. In line with previous promotions, INRD continues to cultivate and recognize personnel that enable the company to grow and diversify while maintaining the elevated standard of service that customers and partners have come to expect.

In conjunction with INRD’s intermodal expansion announced last year, Dan Corcoran has been promoted to Director, Intermodal Operations. Corcoran has been a key player for INRD since 2018, contributing to the business development of the company during his time as Manager, Business Development. Prior to joining INRD, Corcoran served as Vice President, Sales and Marketing for a freight shipping and trucking company, as well as Vice President for an intermodal transportation company. In this newly formed position, Corcoran assumes the responsibility for focusing on ensuring safe, efficient, and reliable intermodal shipping service and positioning INRD for future growth.

To bolster a recent Engineering Department realignment, Bernie Guerrettaz is transitioning from General Manager, Maintenance of Way to Director, Bridges and Real Estate. Guerrettaz has been leading the Maintenance of Way team as General Manager since joining INRD in 2014, ensuring the accurate deployment of capital investments and safe, efficient execution of our maintenance programs. Guerrettaz, a licensed land surveyor, previously owned a land surveying company in Bloomington, working as a land surveyor and civil engineer on residential and commercial land development and construction projects. In his new role, he will oversee the conveyance of property or rights to access property to control risk and liabilities, as well as the building, maintenance, and repair of all INRD bridges. In addition, Doug Guyer has advanced his role as Supervisor, Maintenance of Way. Guyer’s expanded responsibilities include overseeing the day-to-day maintenance of way operations and ensuring a safe and reliable track infrastructure. After over 24 years in agriculture and a stint as a propane hauler, Guyer began his career with INRD as a Bridge Helper in 2009 and was promoted to foreman in 2011, followed by Supervisor in 2016. Both Guerrettaz and Guyer will report to Bryant McCuan, Assistant Vice President, Engineering.

“It is critical to strategically identify and utilize employees in the appropriate roles,” said Dewayne Swindall, president and CEO of The Indiana Rail Road. “We are fortunate to be able to promote and restructure from within for these key positions.”
